Azadi (freedom): Feminist works by scholars of colour

This reading group will run on a monthly-basis where sessions will be held on the last Thursday of every month, between 5-6pm to avoid meeting clashes. All sessions will be held over zoom for the first year. Details and updates will be posted on the website.

To what degree do critical feminist writers of colour have the 'freedom' and 'safety' to write about and through their lived 'truths'?

What does it mean to write through a critical feminist lens that captures the intersections, nuances and complications of lived experiences?

How does this month's writing challenge some of the power dynamics and dominant feminist discourses?

What emotional tolls do feminist scholars of colour embody as part of their research and writing experiences?

How can poetry be used to address feminist issues and silences by scholars of colour?

Reading Session 1: Why Avtar Brah and this paper?

*I began this meditation with an invitation for you to write back.
I hope that you will respond and participate in this discussion.*

Reading Month 2: Thursday 28th October, 2021, 5-6pm.
